

Economics and Personal Finance

What's It All About?

Economics and Personal Finance

is a 4-week college-level course for high school students to learn about the financial scenarios in the real world.

It's Rigorous

Expect to be challenged. You will likely spend a minimum of 6 hours each day to be successful in the course and pass the final exam.

It'll Earn You College Credit

Those who finish with a "C" or better and become a degree-seeking student at Longwood University will receive an additional 3 credit hour scholarship — which equates to 6 credit hours for $400.

It's Certified

Economics & Personal Finance satisfies the state-mandated financial literacy requirements, as well as the online experience and certification requirements.

For details, visit cfr.longwood.edu.

What Past Participants Are Saying ...

"The course material must have been very interesting because I have never seen my daughter study this intensely before. She loved the flexibility of being able to study anytime, anywhere." / Parent

"Online Personal Finance and Economics was a tough and challenging class, but I feel I actually learned something that I'll use in the future. Thank you!" / Student

"My child enjoyed the course. Although intense studying was required, it was condensed which left the rest of the summer free..." / Parent

"Overall a great introduction to college work." / Parent

LONGWOOD
UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

Hiner Hall
201 High Street
Farmville, VA 23909

P 434.395.2046
F 434.395.2203
wallerbd@longwood.edu

LONGWOOD UNIVERSITY

College Credit
for High School Students

Economics & Personal Finance Dual Enrollment Course

CENTER for FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY
LONGWOOD UNIVERSITY

cfr.longwood.edu

Examples of Course Topics

- Credit Cards
- Supply, Demand, and the Price System
- Stocks/Bonds/Futures/Derivatives
- Income and Labor Economics
- Time Value of Money
- Retirement and Estate Planning
- Mortgages and Consumer Loans

Hybrid Offering

Learning At A Distance: Meet once the first week via technology or at a centralized location, while the remainder of the class is offered in an asynchronous online format.

- Textbook, financial calculator and laptop required
- Take the final exam at Longwood University in Farmville, Va.

Course Dates / June 15 - July 11, 2015

Tuition / $400

Application Deadline / May 1, 2015

Honors Academy

Experience College Life: In addition to the Hybrid Offering, spend the final week on Longwood University's campus.

- Interact with industry executives, faculty, staff, and students
- Live in University dorms
- Eat in University dining hall
- Utilize financial trading lab, library and recreational facilities

This elite opportunity will admit a maximum of 40 students.

Course Dates / June 15 - July 11, 2015

On-Campus Dates / July 5 - July 11, 2015

Tuition, Room, & Board / $1,500

Application Deadline / March 1, 2015